Whispers from The Brighter World

Tuesday, September 21, 1999 – 8:15 a.m.

No, the source has not dried up. We spare you, that's all. We know that, on your own, you will never put the brakes on yourself. We must be very vigilant with you to avoid arriving at moments of extreme tiredness, difficult to recover from afterwards. We know that it is in your nature to go to the limit of your strength and we must take this into account.

Why wouldn't you keep these lines? It has to be known that capturing these messages is no easy task, especially in your state of health. The Mission is spreading slowly in the world, but its route is marked out in advance. It is going its way to where it must. The third millennium that is much spoken about in various domains will be marked by cataclysms, but also by great discoveries and a bursting forth of the spiritual, outside the framework of religions, dogmas, and maltreatment committed over the centuries – past and, sadly, present. The pope of the Roman Catholic Church asks for humanity's forgiveness, but other religions are still virulent and not ready to calm down and admit their wrongs.

There will have to be counterbalances for all this, ways to enable one to get to the essential, with freedom of action and respect for all. It's not conceivable otherwise. There will always be suspect movements led by unscrupulous and domineering beings. One has to be very vigilant in this area.

Rest assured, you've all made the right choice; from every standpoint, you can be at peace.

Human frictions are inevitable, and they occur in all environments, even within the family.

So it is, that's part of the game, so will it be until the end of time. What is essential is to be on the right path and to advance with your sails to the wind. Blessings.
