Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday, September 27, 1999 – 10:00 a.m.

The coming year is likely to bring about changes in your lives; what is essential, however, will not change. You all must be able to adapt to circumstances – nothing really dramatic, don't worry. Learn, in all circumstances, to keep your eyes turned towards the light at the end of the spiritual path. Should you have to walk on thorns or rubble, nothing will prevent you from reaching the goal. Confidence must be the major asset in your hand. Without confidence, there is no surrender and no real love.

We insist on this very point today. It is one of the four elements, including will, that form a solid foundation for the construction of the main edifice: the being's realization.

For our part, we put our confidence in you all; our union must be perfect so that we can bring you to the highest level.

These are not mere words, but actual facts whose effects and effectiveness you will be able to appreciate one day.

Therefore, confidence and courage in the face of adversity, with all our blessings.
