Whispers from The Brighter World

See with M how you can forward these messages to him in the most direct way. It's important, they concern my son and must remain, for the moment, of very limited distribution. There must be as few intermediaries as possible. Let him not worry about his successor, whom we've been following for a long time and are training. He shouldn't waste his energy over this concern, he already has enough worries.

We can never tell him enough how much we love him and appreciate his work. What he achieves is almost superhuman. We carry him as much as we can, but his load remains very heavy. We regret not being able to communicate more with him through you. The language problem is a serious handicap in this matter.

Finally, he is sufficiently inspired and fulfils his mission in a masterful way. Our hearts overflow with gratitude for what he accomplishes so well. The highest authorities watch over him.

Try to forward all this to him under the conditions we have mentioned, that is, as discreetly as possible.
