All our tribulations on Earth serve one purpose only: to lead us to Love Him. Whatever our achievements in this life, we are as deprived as a newborn child.

Nothing belongs to us, and that which we benefit from can be taken from us at any moment.

Only this love that connects us with the Creator cannot change.

We can rely on this power in all circumstances; it is intangible and sublimated by the importance we give it.

Answering it opens the sacred channel and can take you all towards infinity, that which you aspire to sail towards.

Be nothing but Love – let it overwhelm you all, let it be at home in you, let it have the place of choice. Step aside, let it penetrate the smallest of your cells.

Be a living flame, a fire consuming itself with love and giving your life its true meaning, so that it can only be glorious.

The Medium: Take me away, my God, I can't bear being separated from you any longer.

But you are already with Him, so what more can you ask? Be blessed and happy to benefit from these contacts, happy to be able to transmit what we wish to share with minds open enough to understand.

If your friends are able to, let them come and meditate with you; this is a special day. They can benefit from it.
