Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Tuesday, November 2, 1999 – 10:00 a.m.

From now on, we will be able to slow down the pace if you wish. You have to spare yourself, my child. Just consider the statistics on the number of messages you have captured; the figures speak for themselves.

Even the heart least inclined can find its nourishment in reading them.

We can still add a few small touches to this teaching, but it must find its way inside yourselves, and you must all feed it with your own reflections and your personal work. You all know the procedure. The path we propose is simple and the practice easy.

Our writings and speeches, together with these messages, form a whole capable of giving you additional support.

This way, your Master can find you in a satisfactory state to do his work. You entrust your spiritual life to him, and he wants the best for you. By combining your efforts, there is no limit to what you can hope for.

You can let yourselves go in complete surrender to the divine Master of the universe.

Babuji