Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, November 4, 1999 – 8:00 a.m.

It is correct that during the last world war, one man's murderous frenzy was unprecedented in history.

A monstrous ego and boundless pride drove him, as well as the hatred rooted in his origins. He was a sick man, and unfortunately he went to the very end of his madness, followed by a great number of individuals.

This period of history will leave an indelible mark that should always be remembered. Other genocides organized by humans continue to be perpetrated without world opinion raising the alarm.

Yet, one day, a supreme authority on the Earth may have the right to scrutinize such deeds and act accordingly.

This third millennium should evolve towards the golden age, towards a state of harmony imbued with a true spirituality.

Great beings will come and illuminate the world; they will have to fight against the ever tenacious forces of evil.

Your Master is working on this imposing project. His action concerns both the present and the future; high-level Masters have this power. You cannot measure the importance of it, but know that we all are working for the good of humanity.
