Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, November 7, 1999 – 10:00 a.m.

In the decades to come, great discoveries will be made on the subject we just mentioned. It will be the great encounter of the material and the spiritual. Everything is linked; everything can be explained; the beings most impervious to spirituality will no longer be able to deny the obvious.

Reality is so beautiful and simple; it will then be easier to explain what God is. We will answer the question raised later. In the meantime, we will see how to give you a sufficiently clear explanation without going to the heart of the problem, which is not really a problem. We just need to weigh the words we use and see how to illustrate this answer to get closer to reality.

This truth is simple, but the data escapes human comprehension.

Humans have always forged a representation of God, built with their own reference points that have nothing to do with what that truth really is.

This 'Uplift' will perhaps allow us, by small touches, to give you a few indications that will enable you to cogitate on the subject and, depending on your open-mindedness, to draw conclusions.
