Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, September 6, 1996 – 11:45 a.m.

My child, I am with you and do not forget you, as you believe. You will soon solve this health issue; there is nothing serious. Don't stress yourself too much, meditate, give and love. You are advancing, my child, we are preparing for you the way that will make you forget your miseries. You will see how happy you will be to have lived all that. Your heart will overflow with love and gratitude. We are very close to you, never forget it. You are courageous, be strong again and again. We help you and we love you. We cannot do better for you. Open up your heart ever more to love. Let it emanate from you like a perfume; this is part of your mission. See you soon, look after yourself and be patient.
