Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, November 11, 1999 – 8:00 a.m.

Now that my son has given a sign, you have agreed to take down Sulochana's messages, and that is quite understandable. Don't ever be in doubt again – that is what I ask of you, and what we all wish for. We will not change your personality, we like it as it is. Your heart literally melts with love, but you keep a cool head and your feet on the ground. You are quite a case for us.

Our thanks to you for having taken down that love letter for my son; his wife is happy to be able, through you, to have it delivered to him.

You know how hard it is to lose a loved one, and the good your contact with François has brought you.

She cannot communicate directly with him as you do, so she is grateful for what can be achieved with the means at your disposal.

We will not insist any longer for the moment, as the day has had a rough start for you.
