Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday, November 29, 1999 – 8:00 a.m.

My dear daughter, these last few days have been rich in contacts for you. We have imposed on your strength a bit and are going to slow down. We know that by yourself you will never put on the brakes.

Your mission – one has to call it that even if you don't think of it that way – has its importance, you can believe us. We will not make predictions about anything regarding the future of these messages.

They will find their place, their own life, among the writings of Sahaj Marg.

They will help some souls see things more clearly, to better assess their personality and to better understand themselves. Our aspirants are following a path that is not easy when one really wants to do well. We are very confident; a great impulse is being given to the Mission. Our teachings and our work are bearing fruit. The method is adapted to modern times and cannot help but satisfy a great number of hearts smitten by the Absolute. They will not be disappointed. We promise only what we can give them. Our Earthly family is expanding beyond our hopes. At the beginning, some disciples of Revered Lalaji carried their fruits across the vast world for the glory of the Almighty.

Be blessed, all of you, for holding this torch, which is not about to be extinguished.
