There are no grounds to have worries about France. Some poorly motivated abhyasis have left; others have broken off. That is normal. They need to assimilate all that they have received and to take stock. It is necessary to let them proceed at their own pace, and nothing should be rushed.

"Each being reacts as he sees fit; it is the result obtained that matters. In their case, [they are at a stage where] a need for interiorisation arises. They will set out again stronger and more determined once they have passed this stage.

"We offer to you a true spiritual feast; the most subtle meals are at your disposal. What is your appetite? That is the question. If you realise that it is a feast, it means that your awareness has been raised and that it should lead you to making the right choice, to consuming according to your appetite and to assimilating the whole perfectly.

"Do you see how simple it is? It is you who run your business, as you feel like. We are there to help you and understand you, but we cannot push you in spite of yourself; even if we deplore certain behaviours, you all have freedom to act as you see fit."
