Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, December 3, 1999 – 10:00 a.m.

My dear daughter, I know well that your feelings towards me are sincere, profound and selfless. They have always been, and that, along with other reasons, makes our relationship very particular.

You give without expecting anything; it is a rare attitude that we appreciate.

Our contacts have become easier and easier over the years; we can even say that the channel is permanently open. You are 'our' medium and this relationship leaves you with the greatest humility. We hope to be able to continue for some time yet.

You have always used this gift for the good of your fellow beings without getting personal benefit from it, except for the recognition from some.

It is high time, at the dawn of the third millennium, for people's minds to open up and for a greater number to believe in this kind of communication with the beyond.

Proof will be given to people of the future; they will have to accept what is evident. Materialism will subside; humans themselves will become refined in their perceptions, which will facilitate things. True mediums will be listened to and recognised, which is far from being the case currently. Evolution on the Earth takes place slowly, according to the laws of its own karma.
