Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday, December 6, 1999 – 10:00 a.m.

It is true, a rigorous practice does not exclude a little fantasy. It is necessary for you all to put things in perspective. Laughter and joy are necessary for your balance. Imagination, in the right measure, is positive and can be creative.

Look at your Master, he can laugh and enjoy small pleasures like anyone else. Loving God, loving your Master, must make you happy. Is there anything more beautiful in this world than having a real goal, beyond what you achieve on the family and professional levels?

Each of you gives a meaning to your life, which goes very far and wide, and whose extensions will make it a success. You've understood and you respond to a very strong call that springs from the heart. It is irresistible and it transforms your life. What would life be without this process? You'd feel an emptiness inside, a dissatisfaction that nothing could fill, even by getting dazed on pleasures. When the time has come for a soul to be guided, it sees the lighthouse and knows that it will be spared the pitfalls.

So be joyful, without remorse – you will be an example for your circle and: 'Love Him – He who loves all'
