Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, December 9, 1999 – 8:00 a.m.

My dear daughter, do you realize the ground covered since the beginning of the first series? Each one of you, in your own way, has made an important inner journey. If we quote certain names more than others, it is for the purposes of the cause. You are all part of this movement, with different roles, but that does not matter; no one is forgotten. You must think as a group and not as individuals, who must merge and let themselves be led by what you all represent together.

At the spiritual level, the rewards come by themselves. There is no preference. Some people are in the forefront, others remain in the shadows, but all are important and are not forgotten. We think it is good to remind you of this; though you have, thanks to your work and ours, acquired enough wisdom and discernment to understand, we believe nevertheless it is preferable to remind you.

The road is long; you must advance without being burdened with human reactions that are inevitable, but weigh down your luggage unnecessarily.

Babuji