Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, December 10, 1999 – 8:20 a.m.

Rest assured, we still have things to say. My son is completing his travels in Europe and he is quite satisfied.

New forces are joining the Mission: highly motivated young people who will make it advance. The elders will have to moderate them and, at the same time, follow them in the dynamic and constructive proposals they may put forward.

The spirit of the Mission must evolve; it has to. Without your fully realizing it, society is changing, as are mentalities; the entire Earth is in full mutation.

A new era is beginning for the world, and hence for yourselves. It would be good for you to take stock. What are your priorities, your ideals? How do you see your life?

You wish to improve it, to give it another meaning; then lay everything out before you for review and modify that which can be changed. Do not limit yourselves to old habits that no longer correspond to the new being emerging in you, with the need for a better-structured life, more suited to it.

It is up to you to see what must be done; be lucid and demanding towards yourselves, have courage.
