Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, December 11, 1999 – 10:00 a.m.

Yes, my daughter, dive into yourself with delight, words will come later. It's not easy to write in that state; let your hand do its work and let your heart be delighted. I'm well placed to understand that situation, since I experienced it long before you.

The Medium: I'm just a little nothing laid on your heart and I benefit from your divine vibrations. Thank you, my Beloved, thank you for everything.

The 'little nothing' is earning, gradually, its letters of nobility and doesn't want to realize it. You're right, knowing is not important. To no longer know is utmost surrender. Live these moments intensely – they are precious, unique, and never repeated in the same way. To reach the state of no-knowledge, of no-feeling, is sublime, ecstatic and indescribable.

You all have to reach it; you know the guiding thread that can lead you to it. It's the best objective you can have, with our blessings.

Babuji