Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, December 15, 1999 – 10:00 a.m.

Whatever you may think of them, your comments in these messages are not silly; they 'humanize' them, in a way.

Why always put yourself down, why do you care about the reactions of others, you are only accountable to us.

Sometimes your comments are a plus, as they make us clarify something or emphasize a particular feature, which happened yesterday.

Move on without bothering about details like this. Continue to do your work as best you can; we are satisfied with it.

Many are preparing to end this century with crazy spending, on banquets equally excessive; that's their right.

As for you all, we hope this kind of prospect is not among your main concerns. Joy, yes, why not; but we hope you will have plans regarding your course of action on the spiritual level.

It is the spiritual that can save the world, and you are already engaged in this movement. This is generally a time when one is tempted to take stock and make forecasts for the future – which is what you will all be doing, we are certain of that.
