Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, December 19, 1999 – 10:00 a.m.

With us, you can express all your love; there is no risk of disappointment as with human beings. It is not always easy in your world to let one's feelings show.

You are all heading towards very sad times, overly computerized, where humans will be communicating using the Internet or other means. There, in anonymity, everything can be said, the best as well as the worst. This medium is already diabolical in some respects. It is exploited dangerously; a kind of Mafia is taking possession of it; it's an easy means to dupe others.

Therefore, take advantage of these modern technologies to make your lives easier, but don't fall into the traps they can hide. Don't become like automatons; it is not dishonourable to show your sensitivity, your love of beauty, or what inspires you in a human being, in music or in a poem. When this expresses the beauty of nature, of divine love, of all that lives and moves, it is an homage to the Creator.
