Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, December 26, 1999 – 8:00 a.m.

My dear daughter, do you realize the impact these messages can have on a refined mind prepared to receive them? You have an example of it before your eyes right now, by observing the reactions of these two beings. They know how to draw out the quintessence of these messages, and hearing them talk about them is a real pleasure. Everyone perceives them and will perceive them in their own way. Where we are, we have another view of things, which allows us to transmit a teaching a little different from what we did when we were incarnate. So, there is complementarity between the two. The form is different, even though the same topics are addressed in them; we try to convey a different spirit through them, one that touches the heart more directly.

This heart that we constantly talk to you all about, we sanctify it and we hope to make you aware of the role this spiritual heart plays in your lives. It is the center and your most precious capital. You know how to make it bear fruit; you have all the elements to do so.
