Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, December 26, 1999 – 10:00 a.m.

Make the most of these moments you spend together. Subtle bonds are woven between you that consolidate what already exists. You are old acquaintances, hence the appeal of your relationship. Be happy, my child, to be thus surrounded. Help them all as much as you can. These bonds are indestructible, consolidated by the same spiritual approach, the same strong vibrations and the same aspirations. There are encounters whose importance we realize only with time. Know how to fully appreciate these meditations you all experience, with hearts vibrating in unison.

All these feelings are subtle and nourish you all very deeply.

Try to retain this condition as the most precious treasure of all. Gorge yourselves on divine energy, let it be your essential food; vibrate, love and thank tirelessly. We are with you all and we bless you very particularly on this day.

Babuji