Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday, December 27, 1999 – 8:00 a.m.

Your senses are continually deceiving you all. You are the playthings of your illusions. Do not be shocked by these remarks, it is a reality. No, the sun is not what you imagine, nor is the Earth, which has never been flat. The truth is veiled, hidden from the beings living on this planet. In the future, as wisdom comes to human beings, they will advance towards knowledge.

Let none of this prevent you all from living this current life as it is. Your views are erroneous on many issues, but you live in this context, and that should not prevent you from forging ahead and fulfilling yourselves spiritually.

In all eras, there were sages who cared little about the great mysteries of the universe.

Some took refuge on high mountains to devote themselves to the divine Creator, another lived in a barrel, others locked themselves up in monasteries. They did not care about knowing the why and how of things.

The Earth is following the course of its evolution, and at all times humans have adapted; so will it be until the end of the world. Pursue your goal in peace and in surrender; there lies salvation.
