Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, January 6, 2000 – 10:00 a.m.

My dear daughter, our contacts will not stop with these messages. Don't worry, our meetings will continue, and when the time comes we will see what will become of them. You are giving your best to go the distance and to satisfy us.

We will use your gifts in other ways. We already have an idea, and we will see what your health condition allows.

After this mild madness caused by the advent of the year 2000, life goes on, identical to what it was. France is licking its wounds, and other countries, more severely affected, are trying to bounce back or to face up to things, since barbarity persists.

New regimes that are in place are not inclined to leniency – peace on Earth is not for tomorrow.

You, our faithful brothers and sisters, have hearts full of love – become torches lighting up the darkness in which the world is plunged. The will for power and money is rotting everything. May our blessings and your sadhana protect you from these diabolical dealings.
