Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, January 9, 2000 – 8:00 a.m.

Consider your body a divine gift. It is a tool of exceptional richness. What you must endure is a blessing.

We can speak to you like this because you do know that, and without it you would not have come all this way. Pleasant outings, long journeys, which have not been the order of the day for a long time, would not give you the same results. Your life's path had to be like this and you sensed it from an early age.

Advance in surrender, accept your destiny, go even further into this work on yourself; thus will this incarnation take on its full meaning. Neither your globetrotting dreams nor those of a life of action have been realized, but regrets are sterile and you have understood that for a long time, otherwise you would not have reached this point. Your path is exactly what you needed, even if it is not to your liking. When you come to rejoin us, you will realize its richness. You will never stop thanking and singing the praises of the divine Creator.
