Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, January 12, 2000 – 10:00 a.m.

Clear your mind of all these thoughts assailing it; otherwise we will not be able to communicate. You must devote yourself exclusively to our contacts and not respond any more to the many entreaties of those around you. You have given enough as it is and your help was precious, but the state of your health no longer allows this dissipation of your energies.

Haven't we already told you that you have entered into holy orders, not in the religious sense of the term, but simply in terms of serving, in the universal spirit that is yours. Your gifts have always been well utilized; you have nothing to reproach yourself for in this regard. After a few years of 'approach', summarized in the first series, the situation has evolved towards what it is now. You are not well understood, even by the beings who surround you and who believe they know you. Such is our wish; you are doing what you came here for, that is the main thing. You may continue to surprise us; you still have more to do, although you think otherwise. It remains for you to put yourself in God's hands, as you know so well to do.
