Friday, January 21, 2000 – 11:00 a.m.

It was not easy for me to consider you as a 'Master.' You were, first and foremost, a spouse and head of the family. Released from this human body that limits the understanding of things, I see you in all your spiritual beauty.

I am happy to have shared the life of such a being. Thanks to our Beloved and to you, this incarnation has been so rich.

You are the pivot, the centre point, of this vast enterprise that the Mission has become. Your Fathers appreciate the work you are accomplishing; it is fully along the lines of what they wish.

Extricate yourself more from what you can. As you have been told, surround yourself with educated people who have pure hearts, and who can help you while remaining in humility and not going beyond the limits of their roles.

As much as possible, we will maintain contact through this means by calling upon the contributions of our 'scribe,' as Beloved Babuji Maharaj calls her.

Yours, with all my love,

Sulochana