Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, January 22, 2000 – 8:00 a.m.

With regard to the teachings of Jesus, one is justified in saying 'understand them who may'. Depending on whether he was addressing his disciples or a crowd, he didn't speak in the same way. He needed to give concrete examples, the most open-minded saw beyond the parable; the secret teaching he gave to a small number was not of the same order. You should be wary of the interpretation that may be made of our comments; some may attach an unfavourable meaning to them. Nothing has changed, not everything can be said; you can all still see examples around you that confirm what we are saying. How many times are the words of your Master distorted, his actions misinterpreted; it cannot be otherwise. You should mistrust deviations and help your brothers and sisters who can sometimes stray from reality. Human beings are imaginative by nature; they see things in their own way. You can certainly observe this kind of behaviour in your entourage. As far as possible, try to rectify, but humankind cannot be changed.
