Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fourth Revelation

Thursday, November 25, 1999 - 8:00 a.m.

We will not dwell on the differences in social classes; they are necessary. It takes all sorts to make a world. On the other hand, we will not revert to the fact that it is – for each one of you – a plan concerning your evolution.

"As much as you can, help your brothers in difficulty; all this misery all over the world is insupportable, even if we know the profound reasons thereof. The mighty will never satisfy their thirst for more and more wealth. Some of them do help their fellow men; most of them continue to sink into a depressing karmic debt.

"You know the rules; they are subtle and terrifying in some respects, but right. Sooner or later, one's debts should be paid; it is the rule of the game and you knew it before even uttering your first cry here below.

"To a man who is not familiar with this way of seeing, there is injustice everywhere. He lays the blame on his human brothers, on God in whom he cannot believe, and he suffers thinking he is abandoned in this sad breeding ground. Some beggars are illuminated from inside and they bless all that move around them; they thank the Creator, they are wise men and you do not know it."
