Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday, January 31, 2000 – 8:00 a.m.

Principles that have been inculcated in you all for centuries are tenacious. They have marked a part of your life and you must free yourselves of them, little by little, by advancing in knowledge.

It is within yourselves that you will find the answers. You have been subjected to the power of dogma and of an entire system, a teaching that was essentially fabricated without respecting the one, the true one, imparted by Master Jesus.

He has entrusted Christianity to our care. There is good reason to be affected by the current failure and disaffection in the West, of this religion that no longer responds to the true aspirations of the people of our time. It is a real mutation that is taking place in this area and that will gain momentum in this century. Human beings must grow up spiritually and find their own truth.
