Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, March 2, 2013 – 10:00 a.m.

Rise up towards the heart of your Master and our united hearts. There the wonder is accomplished and the contact established.

Everyone, in their own way, can achieve it; the calm and serenity induce a deep state of meditation and surrender to the Divine. Following a spiritual way like this one provides the keys to the kingdom of the Spirit where the best is realized. How can we not repeat this ritual! Human beings need these constant repetitions on both the material and spiritual levels. Whatever they may think, they are programmed this way in their innermost nature to act thus and find within themselves the motivation and the reference points necessary for their evolution. They become incarnate for this: to progress again and again. After many mistakes and useless journeys, they reach a desirable stage of wisdom that allows them to cross barriers, thereby opening doors their deepest being has always longed to go through.

The quest for the Divine is a unique approach and promising in every respect.

It gives access to a level of consciousness sufficient and favourable for the blossoming of the soul. Isn't that the intended goal, the only one that's worthwhile and that doesn't change!

It's the central axis of sadhana, of this progression towards Immutable Peace. This peace is not an illusion but an eternal reality.

What to do, what to say to make our abhyasis aware of this reality of the Sovereign Spirit! They are caught in the whirlpool of this life on Earth, whose multiple aspects often divert them from the goal to be reached.

It takes time and incarnations, various tests and endless suffering, to finally understand where the Immutable Peace lies. It's not accessible to all; one must win it over with the right mindset. We set our aspirants on the path; it's up to them to pursue it unremittingly, if such is their deepest need and they have the courage to overcome obstacles. They are helped, let them never doubt it, even if we can't spare them the trials necessary for their evolution. Nothing comes easily, neither here below nor anywhere else; that's how it is. We can't remake the laws, only help our brothers and sisters transcend them in the world of the Sovereign Spirit, where everything takes on another meaning. May all be enlightened according to their expectations, and may they be blessed.
