Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, November 13, 2003 – 10:00 a.m.

Accepting oneself, accepting one's life, with all its unpleasantness, is a sign of wisdom. Each day, each hour of life, gives an opportunity to progress in self-building and the possibility of uniting more and more with the Divine. This positive attitude is fulfilling in more ways than one, it allows one to obtain the best. Compared with eternity, this incarnation is short, we've said it often enough; there's no time to lose and our aspirants have understood this. Our devotees are advancing in a satisfactory way, particularly the most assiduous ones.

Many of them sought their way before coming to us. They experimented but they lacked the spark, the sign from the heart that would have made them understand that they'd found the Master destined for them. Nothing happens without reason; what people call coincidence or chance does not exist; they were guided as is proper, and for their greatest good. This pivotal moment in their earthly existence was of the utmost importance in connecting them to the Divine. A true journey takes on its full meaning under the guidance of a high-level Master fully empowered and accredited for his lofty mission. The aspirants don't realize how lucky they are, and sometimes fail to take advantage of the opportunity given to them. Years spent in our Mission open doors for all our brothers and sisters; it's up to them to act accordingly.

Everyone has a chance, in this world, to choose the right direction; only deep motivation is decisive. The destiny of humanity is under way; our path goes in that direction, and it hasn't taken off in vain. At all stages of its evolution, this world has been graced with guides, great servants of God, capable of bringing it to a new stage, and the one now beginning will be decisive for it.
