Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, August 18, 2013 – 10:00 a.m.

Relax, imagine a world of purity and love where everything is harmonious. You can create this condition inside yourself, far from all human turbulence.

A spiritual approach helps create these moments of delight where, in such states of immersion, everything else loses its importance. Keeping things in perspective and interiorising oneself leads to this privileged contact with our hearts.

The living Master is the sacred relay, the one who helps the aspirant transcend the barriers of materiality; there lies the noblest of goals here below. When a soul opens up to the magnificence of the Spirit, it is able to keep a sense of proportion and put everything into perspective during its Earthly journey. It's not always easy to cope with everything; the needs of the physical body are imperative, and those of the soul are no less essential.

Being able to coordinate all of this and to harmoniously manage what constitutes a balanced life denotes a certain wisdom.

Our abhyasis, for the most part, are not lacking this wisdom, even if, like all their peers, they are faced with many difficulties. It is commendable to work towards a goal with determination, when that goal leads, as ours does, to the most important thing in life. May all achieve a sufficient state of wisdom and know how to put things into perspective in all circumstances.
