Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, May 2, 1999 – 8:00 a.m.

The way, the Master, the goal – never lose sight of this objective.

In spirituality, everything always has to be started over, there is no end to it. This is also the driving force of your life. The more you all advance, the more the peripheral loses importance.

You secure your day-to-day material life and all your vital force goes into spiritual work.

There comes a stage when this need keeps growing.

With time, you will realize the extent of its place in your daily life, and this recognition will make you happy.

It is a nourishment, a comfort, to unite with the inner Master, with the Divine: is there anything more beautiful, more soothing for the heart, more exhilarating too?

How can these millions of souls who are deprived of it manage? Let us act, let us act in that direction, let us move humanity forward through our individual work.

The souls advancing towards light illuminate the world.

You are not only working for yourselves; there too the force of attraction is manifesting.

In this sense, you never advance for yourselves alone – this should doubly encourage you.

You have your place, however modest it may be, in this grand divine game.
