Whispers from The Brighter World

Tuesday, April 17, 2001 – 10:00 a.m.

By developing in yourselves what is good and just, you unite with the Creator. The path to perfection is long and difficult, we have often alluded to this. Don't lose heart if you don't obtain results as quickly as you would like; striving towards this goal is noble in itself.

While advancing very steadily in your spiritual practice, you will feel that a change is taking place within you. It is deeper than it seems; you no longer react to events in the same way, and this achievement seems natural to you. You cope better with unpleasant situations, they affect you less deeply. With time, this change is obvious and you appreciate what you have become. It is just the beginning, towards a long and enriching metamorphosis that will transform your life. Your well-being is felt very deeply and you view the future with a new vision.

This process has changed your lives. Perseverance is rewarding; every day, you enjoy its fruits.

You are all engaged in a long process that will lead you to the highest peak; God willing, your efforts and His grace can work wonders.
