Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, April 25, 2003 – 10:00 a.m.

Don't consider yourself weaker than you are; you have your weaknesses, but there is a great strength in you, propelling you against all odds. Your faith is one of the reasons for this, as it drives you to act, in many circumstances, for the Love of us.

This fervour is like a flame that burns within you and lights up your life, giving it its full meaning. It has helped you through tough ordeals, your heart offered to Divinity.

We come back to the notion of surrender, which is important to insist upon. It develops in proportion to faith, and it's fundamental in a genuine spiritual process.

How can it evolve, blocked by non-acceptance of the trials that punctuate every life? Surrendering to God, to the Master, is a proof of trust, as well as of greatness of Soul; it is nourished by all experiences, good or bad in the eyes of human beings, which contribute to its elevation. The road is long, but well understood in all its aspects it is so very formative.

Having reached that stage, our aspirants have all the elements for success at their disposal.

They are no longer alone in their struggle; the sadhana saves them from long detours where they risk getting lost.

They benefit from a reliable method, and they have a major argument, the Master, the most capable according to their heart, the one they have chosen, guided by their lucky star, knowing that thus all chances would work in their favour.

God is infinitely great. He shapes Souls to His liking, for their own good and for the good of all.
