Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, February 8, 2002 – 10:00 a.m.

The source has not dried up; we are here and will continue for as long as necessary to keep up your faith. These many repetitions are not useless; you are all changing and your comprehension is expanding. Therefore, we revert to some very simple truths, on which it is good to insist. You receive them differently; you have changed, and for this reason you have gained some knowledge on many points which you believed you had grasped inside out. Your intellectual approach showed you a facet of the subjects covered previously; today you can go further and take in differently what we say. Your view of things must be brought back to the main thing and not be carried away by complicated deductions any more.

All is simple when it comes to real spirituality – that which corresponds to real progress and which is not based on data likely to satisfy superficial and factitious knowledge. The path is increasingly narrow as one advances, and the process of stripping away ensues, clearing the way. The superfluous eliminates itself, the aspirants move away from what burdens each of them unnecessarily. They can see themselves, finally, and they can make the decisions that are necessary. Henceforth, they will carry out their lives with wisdom and discernment. Having reached this stage, all becomes clearer for them; there is no more time to lose.

This is how a soul is enabled to rise without mishap and in harmony with the being of flesh, the vehicle that serves it in this lifetime.
