Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, November 23, 2001 – 8:30 a.m.

Without perseverance and diligence on your part, whatever the circumstances, your gifts would not be enough. That's the way it is for each human being, however gifted they may be in terms of their characteristics. We've already come a long way together, and we are happy to be able to manifest ourselves to you all in this way. In times to come, the evolution of humanity will make this kind of contact easier. The human race will undergo a profound mutation, which will give it extrasensory perception.

We are not there yet. While trying to illuminate your path, we are preparing these future times. Prepare them, you too, in your hearts. You are all contributing to these great changes, since you've understood what's important in life and the profound reasons for the programme of each one of them.

Each life contributes to the great divine plan; when it is highly inspired, it aligns itself with the guidelines that pave the way for the outcome of a vast programme.

Let yourselves be drawn by this all-powerful force, which transforms your hearts and fosters the plans designed by the higher forces.
