Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, March 28, 2002 – 8:00 a.m.

Nourish yourself on Divinity, on its Presence in your heart. Open up more and more to its vigilance. Let it operate as it pleases.

Be surrendered more and more to its guidance. Step aside and let your life go into the direction in which it must go. Make yourself available, conscious that the last act of your life is being played, and that nothing should block or delay your progress anymore. You have made choices to which we adhere completely, since they meet our wishes. In offering yourself to serve us, it is God you are making allegiance to. May this flame never cease to burn in your heart, and may you be an example of surrender for fervent hearts who would like to follow us.

It is simple to love; it is also a vocation. Aspiring to live carried by love, leads to this state. A trickle of water reaches the river, which continues its course, quite naturally, carried by the powerful flow.

Love is an attractive force; nothing resists it, therefore do not repress your hearts when they are touched by grace.
