Tuesday, August 30, 2011 – 10:00 a.m.

Dip into yourself; remember these landscapes that fascinated you in the past. The beauties of nature have captivated your soul and left an indelible mark on it. They have always aroused in you surges of love for the Creator. What would life be on Earth without this extraordinary nature that embellishes everything? Its beauty enchants sensitive beings. Each and every one finds in it what they need and the ideal framework for their growth. Faith is nurtured by all these emotions. Praising the Creator leads to sadhana; a dazzled heart turning to sadhana thus prolongs this wonder, to the soul's jubilation.

True mystics have their bearings, and their journey leads them to the desired goal. May each of our aspirants find this goal in this life, under the blessings of their chosen and revered Master.

[Later]

My daughter, you are delighted by this speech. Inside you, it lifts the burdens inherent in the challenge of living in an exacting physical body.

Praise the Creator and the spiritual Master who leads through the maze of practice to a state of wonder of the soul, delighting the whole being.

Love infinitely, there lies the true way here below. It opens the doors to the Immutable Peace.

Babuji