Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, April 14, 2006 – 10:00 a.m.

For so many years, you have responded faithfully to our entreaties with joy in your heart. These entreaties will be of another type when these messages are no longer given. You will be neither forgotten nor inactive, as you so dread – be assured of that. Our bonds go beyond a temporary mission. Our way is close to your heart and you will serve it, whatever happens. Be focused on the most important thing, and look at its progression in the world; its spirit is being established imperceptibly, and that is irreversible. What is good for humanity will endure beyond time and beyond all sorts of upheavals that it will undergo. May faith carry you, as it always has. Being a light in your life, it guided you towards your destiny and its fulfilment. Faith can work wonders; it is a person's most precious asset. May all our aspirants become aware of this and increase it with praiseworthy actions fostering their evolution. This is the only objective of our way: to help them in a long process where nothing must be neglected. The rules are easy to follow and the practice is well suited to current times in which people are incessantly caught up by the excitement of their environment. Meeting places, where our aspirants unite in the same current of thought, are beneficial to all.

Seminars are essential to the life of our Mission, as they concentrate creative energy and reinforce it. This aspect must be given priority, hence the importance of ashrams around the world. They are centre points from where will spark a spiritual life well suited to future times. Their number must be increased before anything else; this is imperative. They are vital organs of a large body upon which cohesion depends. All the rest will be given in addition and is not currently urgent. These places give structure to the whole, giving it a unity in the world of humankind, in accordance with its most subtle aura.

May all our aspirants become aware and act accordingly. The strength of our Mission is theirs; they should not forget it, for the good of all.
