Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, July 26, 2003 – 10:00 a.m.

My daughter, a kind soul will help you during this difficult time for you. We have no doubt about it.

Brotherhood is not really the order of the day in our way, and yet it would be to the humane advantage of our brothers and sisters to practice it. They do not progress alone towards the goal, and this aspect should not be neglected; it must not be forgotten.

Banish this sadness from your heart; let your heart flourish in the fiery glow of love. Be confident, surrender, and your life will orient itself in the right direction.

Also banish your doubts and let some remarks appear here that refer to you and should not be hidden.

We are not unaware of the worries that our aspirants are facing. They are part of their journey and the changing dynamic and recurrent game of life. Life is the most rigorous school. Rewards can follow ordeals, though the ordeals may be trying. Only God can justify them. Everything evolves, changes and brings new elements that can help each person situate themselves in relation to the direction their incarnation should take.

Everything is regulated, counted and considered in relation to that direction. The call of the Divine is the supreme grace that makes them realize their real reason to exist.

What would this life be without the prospect of an elevation towards 'Him' and a possible realization in 'Him'.

One who does not know the delights of uniting with God is unaware of the only exquisite pleasure which makes this Earthly existence worth living.

Our abhyasis are yearning for this fusion; their efforts are in this direction and we help them.

Their Master is undoubtedly the best guarantor of their complete success.
