Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, December 28, 2007 – 10:00 a.m.

Can one be weary of singing divine love – your heart is craving only for that: to immerse itself completely in Him, the eternal source of life. Your Master is filled by it; his soul exults in being thus nourished. Is it not his elixir, his strength here below! Why would he be weary of this speech, his entire spiritual being is yearning for it; his soul blazes under the ardent fires of this love, finding in this way a different means to express itself.

Where better than in these messages can the beauty of his soul unfold! Few of the Great Chosen Ones before him had this means of expression, dissociating the human person from the higher and spiritual reality of the divinized being. How can one better define him – these writings are revealing; his successor will find in them the best substance that allows him to see himself in his Master. This celestial manna is not given in vain; it will teach and help many hearts to follow this way of love, which future humanity will be able to claim. Such is our celestial gift, with very special blessings.

Babuji