Go towards what your heart craves; it is perpetually yearning, without being completely fulfilled. Do not neglect it. Let it drink from this unique source that lavishes benefits like no other. Abundance is its defining characteristic; it is enough to give it its due place, too often neglected by humans and ignored; it showers elite souls having come a very long way towards it. From complete ignorance to bliss, it will take time, tribulations, sufferings, all the evils capable of making one appreciate its fruits. Approaching it allows one to foresee its ineffable splendour and the delights it can offer. To start a spiritual path is to foresee the possibility of success, when the path is followed with determination. We always revert to the same point: commitment, fervent practice, puts the aspirant in the best of conditions. There is no magic formula avoiding effort and perseverance; one has to earn the success and also the method, with a minimum of commitment and respect.

Pure hearts will see the light; there are many of them in this world who are looking for a favourable way out of the labyrinth of darkness and ignorance.

Those who come towards us are ready, henceforth co-opted to answer a profound aspiration of the soul, whose full extent they cannot consciously grasp. That is true for the majority of our brothers and sisters, but all is well since their Master provides for them.
