Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, March 22, 2013 – 10:00 a.m.

Life unwinds a long thread behind the self; its strength depends on one's karma. This thread can be as strong as the deep convictions of the aspirant when one is determined to organise one's life accordingly and grant to what is essential its rightful place. Thus does one's life take on its real significance. While doing what it takes at the human level for themselves and their circle, they reserve a special place for what elevates their soul, nourishing it over time and enchanting it – there lies the secret of each being. Within oneself, in this reserved and unique space, the wonder is achieved – the expansion of the soul and its progress towards the ultimate goal, one that cannot disappoint. The convinced aspirant embarks on this journey with confidence and determination regarding this achievement.

Our faithful abhyasis demonstrate through their journey an ability to move forward, whatever the circumstances. They are helped and supported. In this quest for the Divine, a fervent heart finds its way, one in which every passing day leads it towards the best that can be. What remains of an incarnation in this world? Very little, in truth. For the most famous people, there is a story, a monument. Most often, time erases even the slightest memory. A soul that is illuminated by love and beauty keeps all it has acquired and continues its celestial trajectory in space. There is no time to lose on Earth; moreover, time is counted, and no one escapes it – this law cannot be circumvented.

Blessed are the pure hearts motivated by the best intentions, by a strong faith in their Master and the powers that support him here below. An incarnation is short compared to eternity; may each of our aspirants truly become aware of the opportunity given to them to surpass themselves and to advance towards the ultimate goal. We help all of them in this, in our own manner, both in the background and in the light of day – and that is worth mentioning here.

Blessings from all of us on this Mission that is close to our hearts.
