Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fourth Revelation

In the next century, the scientists will discover an essential element concerning man's spiritual life. High technology will enable them to go very far in the exploration of the human body, of the heart in particular, which we have just alluded to.

"They will discover new and important elements in the nervous and lymphatic systems which are communication networks between all the organs. Impulses or orders go out from the brain and the heart. The real functions of this organ, the heart, will then be highlighted.

"Those who will be on the side of the truth will have to fight, as always, to impose their views. Four centuries ago, one did not even know that the heart played a role in the blood's circulation. It was a mystic[2] who understood it and whose views prevailed. These concepts, as well as the overall reality of the heart, were already known by very ancient civilisations. That should make some alleged scientists of this time a little more humble.

"Could the next century be called the Century of the Enlightenment? Let us pray for that to happen in every sense of the word."
