Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, July 5, 2000 – 10:00 a.m.

Remain still and centred in the heart of silence. Bliss is beyond all feelings. A heart-to-heart in this holy space cannot leave room for perception of the senses, which must be at rest. Here is peace and harmony ... In successive waves, it pervades the place which then becomes imbued and nourished by the divine essence.

In these privileged moments, when the soul has its rightful place, the being of flesh calms down and prays. These moments of complete unity are rare. The innermost being must treasure them, like priceless jewels.

To console you for this necessary departure, which saddens you, we wanted to bring you to this shore where only love that overwhelms the soul matters.

Pull yourself together, my daughter, you still have much to do. We repeat ourselves, but how else can we act with you humans, who constantly need to be reassured and guided.

The path, with few exceptions, cannot be shortened; one must go to the end, as much as possible in serenity.

Babuji