Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Tuesday, November 21, 2000 – 8:30 a.m.

You are right to call for love; it embellishes all, it sanctifies all. It is sufficient to desire it strongly to become one with it, to forget the ugly side of life. Think that this side no longer exists, that purity is everywhere in this world, that people understand and support each other, that all is beautiful and that life is a long ode to the Divine – a love song that includes everything.

That is just a dream you will say. Yes, it is necessary to dream this world so that one day it exists, just as we describe it and as you would all wish it to be. Such a world already exists in the universe, so why should it not come about on Earth!

Work so that your thoughts cause it to materialize and your actions build it. Let your heart constantly distil a nectar that nourishes the creatures around you, while you yourselves remain in a perpetual state of grace.

No, this is not utopian; such an idyllic world could be built.

Do better than dream about it, work for its construction.

Babuji