Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, May 25, 2014 – 10:00 a.m.

The time of fulfilment will one day come on Earth – a time of grace for all beings convinced of this fact and totally committed to this way of the heart, a path that frees humans from the many restraints that limit them. Yes, the time of sovereign love will come; nothing is impossible to the Divine Power. It takes time and numerous trials to acquire within oneself this dignity in the face of the Eternal. 'One day the divine goal will be attained' – this will happen, without a doubt. All of us here are working towards it, each in our own way, and in a permanent manner. We are fully committed, in the intense joy provided by this unsurpassed state.

The commitment of one and all is important; it yields a unique energy capable of working wonders where they are not expected.

Beautiful and great souls are making their way in our Mission, forming a whole that delights and motivates us even further. There is strength in unity, as you say on Earth; this principle is universal and unfailing. When there is a unity devoted to the higher powers, these powers join with and support such a commitment, as it meets their expectation, that is to say, the most beautiful goal to be reached here below. May the whole of humanity reach the best, and may our Mission never cease to win people's hearts.

Special blessings to all.
