Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fourth Revelation

Tuesday, December 7, 1999 - 8:00 a.m.

As long as possible, continue to write, my child. In all this mass of messages, there should be some that will hold the attention of those who will read them. Even if they do not make it their favourite book, certain truths will perhaps possibly touch them.

"Do not worry; all these pearls will not be lost. What emanates from the Divine is affixed a seal, and one day or the other, now or in another century, somebody will be interested and will give them all the attention they deserve.

"A novel can be lost, forgotten by all, but all these lines which you are writing day after day under our inspiration will have their own existence and will be able to touch the hearts of our brothers for generations to come. Even if they must remain hidden in a drawer for several decades, they exist and have not been written and printed for nothing.

"We know that such is not your concern; you do what we ask you to do with utmost surrender. We have your confidence, which, in addition to love, are states that make you gifted candidates capable of reaching the highest levels.

"Be blessed."
