Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, July 25, 2002 – 8:00 a.m.

Your heart is getting refined, your perceptions, too. Our contacts are not limited to these time-bound appointments; they are frequent. You know how to remain available and receptive, your priorities being well defined. This is how you are making progress; giving one's heart means giving it fully. There is no room for approximation in this matter, commitment must be total – thus is a true mystic. Mystics made their choices, their lives are structured according to this special planning: nothing and no one imposes anything on them.

When the moment has come, it is the soul that becomes demanding in its need to love and to offer itself. Touched by grace, it turns definitively towards the one who calls it. Thus is the process of a strong soul, resolutely committed in the service. There are many stages to go through before arriving at this level of perceptiveness that enables the heart, without hesitation, to offer itself completely.

It is a great step being made towards Him, who in His great wisdom knows how to guide the heart so well, when it is ready for this great voyage.
