Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, December 11, 2002 – 10:00 a.m.

Let your heart become an unlimited space, completely available and welcoming to Divinity, in purest joy. This objective is essential for you; you chose it deliberately, and it gives your life all its meaning.

Each one of our aspirants is making their way, according to their deep convictions and at their own pace. We help them all, according to their personal request, the work being done by itself, shall we say, since the response results from the call of the soul. We cannot force a heart; it must develop and be strengthened by an assiduous practice, thus benefiting from the divine energy that is transmitted to it. This purifying breath makes it grow and open up to reality.

Love develops in the heart, little by little, as a logical result of this work, which opens new horizons to it.

This process will continue until the end of one's life on Earth. Perseverance, a prime quality in this circumstance, will enable all to make good progress. They were ready, in this incarnation, to take the plunge and access a true process likely to make them move forward. Each one is geared towards what is suitable for them, and according to their progress.

The journey is long, evolution takes place slowly. Our way constitutes an important turning point in this process which benefits many souls, which in turn take along with them other souls seeking a favourable outcome, fulfilling the call of the Divine.
